Job description

Articy Software GmbH is a small team with a great mix of industry veterans and brilliant new talent. We develop popular and powerful software solutions for interactive storytelling and game design, used worldwide in projects of all kinds—from indie games to AAA titles. To strengthen our team, we are looking for an experienced frontend developer (m/f/d) who will take an active role in helping us further adapt our products to the diverse needs of our customers.

The role is open in Germany only and can be performed remote within the country.
